Political Philosophy	Rule of law / separation of powers	The reform debate is fundamentally about whether institutional power is organized to ensure impartial justice.	Use the bill as an example of constitutional morality, institutional neutrality and fairness in governance.	GS II / GS IV / Essay	High

Philosophy Optional Mini-Teaching:

- In exam language, tribunals are useful only when they combine specialization with independence.
- Current affair use: a tribunal reform bill can illustrate why structure matters as much as speed in justice delivery.
- Possible answer line: institutional design becomes ethical when it secures impartiality rather than administrative convenience.
- Caution: do not reduce the issue to a generic 'judiciary reform' point; keep the independence debate central.

Revision Notes

- Tribunal reform is a structural question, not just a legal-bill headline.
- The key tension is specialization versus independence.
- Use Article 323A/323B, Madras Bar Association and the 2021 Act as your core anchors.

Ethics	AI ethics / privacy	The issue asks how a state can use algorithmic tools to protect citizens without normalizing intrusive surveillance.	Use as an example of balancing security with autonomy and dignity.	GS III / GS IV / Essay	High

Philosophy Optional Mini-Teaching:

- AI ethics is about responsible use of intelligent tools, not just technical efficiency.
- The philosophical tension is between security and autonomy: both matter, neither should become absolute.
- Current affair use: digital identity protection is a strong example when discussing privacy, surveillance and epistemic responsibility.
- Possible answer line: a good digital state protects identity without converting every citizen into a permanent suspect.
- Caution: keep the linkage practical; do not drift into abstract AI hype without citing privacy and accountability.

Revision Notes

- Remember the federal point: cybercrime policing is still primarily a State function.
- Use IT Act + CERT-In + DPDP Act as your legal tripod.

- Elephant conservation is about habitat, corridors and conflict mitigation together.
- Remember the big numbers: nearly 60 percent of wild Asian elephants, 22,446 estimate, 33 reserves, 150 corridors.
- Project Elephant is the key policy anchor.
